How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

The Fund's Class A shares outperformed the Bloomberg U.S. Government Intermediate Total Return Index Value Unhedged (the "Index") during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2024.

Treasury yields fell meaningfully over the 12-month period ended September 30, 2024, as U.S. inflation continued to improve, and the market priced in anticipated interest rate cuts by the Federal Reserve.

The Fund's long duration, compared to the Index, was a relative contributor in this environment. Positive relative returns from the Fund's allocation to asset-backed securities, collateralized mortgage obligations, and commercial mortgage-backed securities also contributed. There were no meaningful detractors to the Fund's performance over the period.

How did the Fund perform over the past 10 years?

The line graph below reflects a hypothetical $10,000 investment and assumes the deduction of the maximum sales charge associated with that investment. The returns shown in the line graph and table assume the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains, but do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder would pay on distributions or the redemption of Fund shares. The performance information shown below represents past performance and is no guarantee of future results.
