What were the Fund costs for the past year?

(based on a hypothetical $10,000 investment)

Class Name	Costs of a $10,000 investment	Costs paid as a percentage of a $10,000 investment
Class A	$102.00	0.99%

How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

The Fund's Class A shares underperformed the ICE BofA 3-15 Year U.S. Municipal Securities Index (the "Index") during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2024. The period began with municipal bond yields peaking in October of 2023, which marked the end of the Federal Reserve rate hiking cycle, before falling precipitously throughout the period and ending significantly lower.

The backdrop of falling municipal bond yields boosted bond prices due to the inverse relationship between the two, producing strong absolute returns for the asset class. However, the Fund's relative underperformance during the period was driven by its shorter duration and its focus on New Mexico bonds. The Fund's single-state focus and the impact on relative performance were evident in individual bond selection.

The Fund's relative performance benefited from active management with respect to its sector/quality returns thanks to the Fund's higher weighting to revenue and AA-rated bonds. Specifically, within the revenue sector, single-family housing and education bonds were positive contributors to relative performance during the period.

How did the Fund perform over the past 10 years?

The line graph below reflects a hypothetical $10,000 investment and assumes the deduction of the maximum sales charge associated with that investment. The returns shown in the line graph and table assume the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains, but do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder would pay on distributions or the redemption of Fund shares. The performance information shown below represents past performance and is no guarantee of future results.
