What were the Fund costs for the past six months?

(based on a hypothetical $10,000 investment)

Class Name	Costs of a $10,000 investment	Costs paid as a percentage of a $10,000 investment
Class C	$109.00	2.34%

How did the Fund perform for the past six months and what affected its performance?

The Fund's Class C shares underperformed the Russell 2500 Growth Index - Total Return (the "Index") during the 6-month period ended March 31, 2025.

Small- and mid-cap markets were volatile during the period as hopes for a business-friendly presidential administration were elevated by U.S. presidential election results and then dampened as the new administration implemented tariffs increasing market concerns of recession and a broader economic slowdown, contributing to lower equity prices that detracted from Fund performance. U.S. growth equity prices spiked after the November 2024 election, then reversed course and led the equity market decline through the first quarter of 2025, contributing to the Fund's underperformance.

Stock selection and overall sector allocation detracted from Fund performance relative to the Index. Stock selection in health care and consumer staples were the largest detractors. Stock selection in information technology and communication services were the largest contributors to relative performance.

Stock selection in companies with market capitalizations over $12 billion, an overweight allocation of the Fund compared to the Index, detracted from relative performance. The Fund's underweight allocation to the small-cap segment of the market capitalization range elevated relative performance.

How did the Fund perform over the past 10 years?

The line graph below reflects a hypothetical $10,000 investment. The returns shown in the line graph and table assume the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains, but do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder would pay on distributions or the redemption of Fund shares.
