How did the Fund perform for the past six months and what affected its performance?

The Fund's Class A shares underperformed the MSCI All Country World ex USA Growth Net Total Return USD Index (the "Index") during the 6-month period ended March 31, 2025.

During the period, market swings due to U.S. elections, a change of administration, and new tariff tensions ultimately resulted in a downturn at period end. The U.S. presidential election in early November 2024 sent markets up as investors rallied behind a business-friendly administration. As the Trump administration took office, a hardline approach to global trade driven by tariff implementation dampened markets pushing global equity prices down. Growth companies were down for the period driven by information technology companies' lower valuations, particularly artificial intelligence and semiconductors, which detracted from Fund performance.

The Fund's underperformance relative to the Index for the period was primarily driven by stock selection. Geographic allocations detracted from relative performance of the Fund versus the Index, while sector allocations were flat. The Fund's currency effect was additive to relative performance.

During the period, the Fund's overweight allocations to, and stock selection in, communication services and Singapore were positive contributors, while stock selection in information technology and overweight allocation to the U.S., a zero weight in the Index, detracted from relative performance.

How did the Fund perform over the past 10 years?
